Memphians Of All Races Mourn For President At Auditorium

A large photograph of the late President John Fitzgerald Kennedy, draped in a black crepe hung above the heads of a grief-stricken crowd of Memphians who quietly listened to local citizens, representatives of all races, creeds and religions who gathered in the City Auditorium last Sunday afternoon to participate in a memorial service for the late president.

Four tall, white tapers glowing in candle-holders which were draped in black. On either side of the photograph of the late President Kennedy stood two large baskets of white mums. A basket of white mums stood in front of the lectern, draped in black crepe.

A feeling of brotherhood permeated the auditorium — perhaps the first time in the history of Memphis that black and white, Gentile and Jew, Protestant and Catholic shared so closely an objective and executed without any trace of prejudice.

The memorial services were sponsored by the Shelby County Democratic executive committee of which James E. Irwin is chairman. He referred to Kennedy's book "Profile in Courage." He said "History shows that when our democracy is in jeopardy, all Americans join together to preserve it. Communism is dedicated to destroying the free world. We Americans must re-dedicate ourselves to the principles of democracy in paying tribute to President Kennedy."

Requiem prayers and a sermon was said by the Rt. Rev. Monsignor Merlin K. Hearney, pastor of the Immaculate Conception Catholic church. He said of Kennedy, "He was a marked man who made the sign of the cross. We bow our heads in shame that such a martyr should black the pages of history."

Atty. Lucius Burch said: "I am ready to dedicate the rest of my life to doing that which best serves the greatest number. I think that it is our duty to work for freedom, dignity of all citizens." He went on to say that it is time to strike at the shackles of ignorance, prejudice and fear. And called for integration.

What Is Expected Of Our Elected Officials

Mayor-Elect William B. Ingram, Jr. surprised many political-pulse-takers by winning the Nov. 7th mayoralty race. But his election came as no surprise to the man-in-the-street because they had quietly elected Judge Ingram as their champion many months before the official election.

How did Ingram do it? His greatest appeal to the man-in-the-street was his repeated attack upon the City Police department's modus operandi — arrests, presentation of evidence, etc. — Ingram refused police testimony as conclusive evidence of guilt. He meted out minimum fines in many cases when the maximum could have just as easily been given. This was a big factor in Ingram winning the heart of the man-in-the-street.

In effect, Mayor-Elect Ingram obtained many "anti-police department" votes. Thus! He got beneath the armor of the police department because he "stood up for the little people of the city," who have cried "police brutality, false arrests, abusive language during arrests, etc."

Could the election of Judge Ingram as mayor be "the handwriting on the wall" for Commissioner Claude A. Armour's political career? Rightfully or wrongly, the "man-in-the-street" holds Armour responsible for the conduct of the police. He is the last leaf of the E. H. Crump political tree which once grew and flourished so dominantly in this end of the forest.

Interfaith Memorial Service Held For President Kennedy

While the funeral mass was being said for President John Fitzgerald Kennedy in Washington, D. C., people of many faiths gathered in Avery Chapel AME church last Monday before noon for an interfaith memorial service to the late President.

The service included prayer, songs by the audience, and words of comfort from three ministers. In charge of the service was the pastor, Dr. Peter G. Crawford.

Jones Insists On Talking; Escapes Chair; Gets 99 Years

When Frank Jones, 37, went on trial for his life in Criminal Court last week, Public Defender Hugh Stanton, Sr., advised him not to take the stand. But Jones thought the jury ought to listen to what he had to say, and insisted on talking.

Jones' strategy may have worked, for instead of giving him the death sentence as the state had asked, the jury set his punishment at 99 years in the penitentiary.

If Jones continues to live through as miraculous circumstances as he went through this year, he will emerge from prison sometime in the year 2012 after serving 49 years. It makes the

Largest Banks Hire Negroes As Clerks And Secretaries

NASHVILLE — Three of the largest banks and two major insurance companies here have employed Negro personnel in secretarial and clerical positions for the first time, according to a report of the Mayor's Metropolitan Committee on Human Relations recently released.

Rev. J. E. Lowery, chairman of the Nashville Intergroup Coordinating Committee and one of seven Negro members of the 26 member bi-racial committee stated, "We consider the employment of four Negroes by three of the major banks, and the upgrading of Negro personnel by Nashville-based national insurance companies a major breakthrough in equal job opportunity in Nashville and the South. Some retail businesses in the community have begun hiring personnel without regard to race following a resolution by the retail merchants board of the Chamber of Commerce calling for retailers to institute fair employment policies and practices." Rev. Lowery said.

The committee report also revealed that there are now three private hospitals which offer non-segregated facilities and services (except obstetrical and medical staff), and the city's only technical high school will admit Negroes in January, 1964. Nashville's public schools are integrated through the sixth grade, but the system's grade-a-year plan is under attack in the Federal courts. There are approximately 600 Negro pupils in integrated schools in Metropolitan Nashville.

The Intergroup Coordinating Committee is composed of representatives of all civil rights and human relations groups in Nashville including NCLC, NAACP, Student Committee, etc.

Also being watched with great anticipation are Freshmen Commissioners Petes Sisson of Public Works; Hunter Lane, Jr. Of Public Service and Kenneth Turner, Judge of Juvenile Court.

Among the many things expected — just like other citizens — most mentioned among Negroes are:

(1) A drastic reduction in police brutality, abuse, etc.

(2) Employment of Negroes in all public offices in secretarial, clerical, etc. positions.

(3) Continued effort to attract more industry here.

(4) No raise in property tax in the immediate future.

A Hero's Burial For John F. Kennedy

World Pauses To Pay Respects During Funeral Of President

By MERRIMAM SMITH
WASHINGTON — (UPI)

The soul of John Fitzgerald Kennedy was commended unto God Monday at a simple Roman Catholic funeral Mass attended by world leaders.

Last rites for the assassinated President were conducted at St. Matthew's Cathedral by Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston, the lifelong friend and pastor who performed Kennedy's marriage ceremony and baptized his children.

Kennedy's flag-draped casket was borne to the Cathedral from the White House, six blocks away, by the same horse-drawn caisson that brought the remains from the Capitol where an estimated 140,000 persons passed by the bier.

Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy, who was at her husband's side when a sniper's bullet cut him down Friday, followed on foot behind the caisson. Walking behind her to the mournful cadence of muffled drums were President Johnson, former President Eisenhower and Truman, foreign heads of state and other dignitaries.

After the services, the cortege was to proceed to Arlington National Cemetery where the commander of PT-109 will rest forever among fellow comrades-in-arms of World War II and other heroic dead.

"The Rest In Peace" mass for America's first Roman Catholic President was offered in the presence of 1,200 persons who had come from near and far to make a final gesture of love or respect.

"Life is not taken away... life is but changed," intoned white-haired Cardinal Cushing as he offered the ancient Catholic prayer for the departed.

"Be merciful, we beseech thee, O Lord, to the soul of thy servant, John Fitzgerald Kennedy, whom you have just called out of this world... he put his hope and trust in you; do not then let him undergo the pains of Hell, but bring him to happiness without end."

By the side of the grief-stricken young widow was Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, the late President's brother and closest to him of all in the closely knit Kennedy family

Among the mourners were such diverse world leaders as Prince Philip of Britain; Anastas I. Mikoyan, first deputy premier of Russia; President Charles De Gaulle of France; Chancellor Ludwig Erhard of West Germany; King Baudouin of Belgium; President Eamon De Valera of Ireland; and Sir Alec Douglas-Home, new prime minister of Britain.

Across America, millions of Kennedy's countrymen said their own prayers for the repose of his soul. President Johnson declared a national day of mourning and earnestly recommended that every American attend his place of worship "to pay homage to the memory of a great and good man."

St. Matthew's Cathedral, which was Kennedy's parish church, is a drab red-brick building with a 200-foot high dome. Standing since 1898, and begrimed by the soot of the downtown area it occupies, it is far from impressive in its external appearance.

But its interior is a glittering example of Romanesque-Byzantine architecture, with pillars of magnificent red-and-white Carrara marble and richly colored mosaics of Venetian glass. Its showpiece is a magnificent high altar of white marble, carved in India and decorated with colored insets in the same manner as the famed Taj Mahal.

Kennedy's casket rested in front of this altar and just underneath the soaring dome of the Cathedral.

In keeping with Catholic liturgical tradition, there were no flowers on the altar or around the casket. The usual white candles on the altar were replaced with candles of unbleached yellow wax, the sign of a funeral mass. Cardinal Cushing wore black vestments instead of the brilliant scarlet robes of his office as a prince of the church.

One of Kennedy's favorite hymns, The Ave Maria, was sung before the mass by Luigi Veni, a Boston tenor who also sang at the late President's wedding.

The Cathedral choir then sang the ancient funeral hymn

"Libera Me" (which begins with the words, "Deliver me, oh Lord, from everlasting death...") in a new setting by the Italian composer Perosi.

The service conducted by Cardinal Cushing was what is known technically as a "low" mass, which means that it was the simplest type of mass, spoken rather than sung, with a single priest officiating rather than the three who would have been required had the family chosen a solemn high mass.

There was no eulogy. Insofar as the service itself went, the deceased son of the church before the altar might have been an unknown laborer rather than the President of the United States.

The emphasis of the service was strongly focused on the Christian conviction that death is not the end, but the beginning of a larger eternal life. Cardinal Cushing read the words of St. Paul in his letter to the Thessalonians warning Christians against falling into the pagan custom of grieving over the dead "as others who have no hope."

"For if we believe that Jesus died and rose again, so with him God will bring those also who have fallen asleep through Jesus."

He also read the words of Christ recorded in St. John's gospel:

"I am the resurrection and the life; he who believes in me, even if he die, shall live."

Following the mass proper, Cardinal Cushing came down from the high altar and approached the casket to bestow a final absolution on the mortal remains of the late President.

While the congregation stood in reverent silence, the 68-year-old Archbishop of Boston pronounced the ancient prayer for the forgiveness of a merciful God:

"Oh Lord, do not bring this thy servant to trial, for no man becomes holy in thy sight unless thou dost grant him forgiveness of all his sins."

"We implore thee, therefore, do not let the verdict of thy judgement go against him, whom the loyal prayer of Christian faith is commending to thy mercy..."

The Cardinal walked around the bier, sprinkling the casket with holy water, three times on the right side, three times on the left side.

Then he exchanged the holy water for incense, and again walked around the bier, waving the burning silver pot of incense at the casket three times on each side.

"Dominus Vobiscum" "The Lord be with you," said the Cardinal.

"Et cum spiritu tuo" — "And with thy spirit" replied choir and congregation.

"Requiescat in pace" — "May he rest in peace."

"Amen."

While the Cardinal recited the prayer known to Catholics as the "Our Father," and to Protestants as "The Lord's Prayer," Veni sang its words, in a musical setting by composer J. Alfred Schell.

As pallbearers removed the casket to the hearse waiting to transport it to Arlington for burial, the Cathedral choir sang a recessional hymn in Gregorian chant. It is called "In Paradisum" and is a triumphant reassertion of the Christian hope of everlasting life in heaven.

Memphians in all walks of life joined the world in expressing shock, grief, sadness over the death of President Kennedy.

A clergyman — Rev. S. A. Owens, Sr., pastor of Metropolitan Baptist church, and President of Tennessee Baptist Missionary and Education Convention said: "In the untimely tragic death of President Kennedy, this nation suffers profound loss. The national and the international world will feel the loss of this forceful, courageous leader who had won the confidence of political strategists who serve in the worldwide domain. God grant that the great spirit of common brotherhood for which he fought so nobly," continue said Rev. Owens, who is also chairman of Owen college Board of trustees.

A public school head — Frank J. Lewis, principal of Grant elementary school, said: "The nation and the world has suffered a great loss, through the death of our president. He will be recorded in history as one of the greatest national and international leaders of our time."

A member of the State Pardon and Parole Board, in Memphis for a meeting — Willard Bowden of Nashville, said: "I think the world has lost the greatest leader of our time. I certainly think that we here in America have lost the greatest civil rights leader we have ever known. At this time all party factions should come together and get behind President Lyndon Baines Johnson and support his program with all energy and enthusiasm we possess."

The president of a local service club — Lawrence Wade of Omnisub-100 club said: "His death (President Kennedy) is a great loss to the nation, and to the free world, first, but to the Negro particular. He was the first president in history who took forthright stands on civil rights. I don't think his sense of fair play and justice will be equaled in a president in the next 50 years."

A waitress — Mrs. Alberta Simpson, 862 McComb St., said: "I don't feel that Lee H. Oswald is the actual man behind the assassination. He did the killing for some group or organization."

Another waitress — Mrs. Dorothy Eason, 2439 Zonne St., said: "I feel depressed like everyone else. I hate it. I hope they caught the right man (Oswald)."

Another waitress — Mrs. Dord Dixon, 139 Kirk Ave. said: "I was real hurt. I guess everybody else was hurt just like me. It was a very bad thing."

A Public School Principal — Robert Morris of Lester high school said: "I was deeply moved, and disappointed over the untimely death of President Kennedy. I feel that the American people, especially the Negroes have suffered a tremendous loss."

A local politician — Frank Kilpatrick said "I think that the nation has lost the greatest president that people have known. I think he did more for the greatest majority than any other president ever. Abraham Lincoln signed freedom on paper. John Kennedy put freedom into practice. His great knowledge of world affairs was wider than any other president. I have watched him demonstrate this knowledge at press conferences."

A local practicing attorney — S. A. Wilbur said: "It was a great tragedy."

ESCAPE TRIP

Jones was convicted this week for fatally shooting Leora Thomas of 2388 Dexter last March 23 when he forced the man into his car for an escape trip out of town. When the car would not start, he blasted Mr. Thomas in the head and fired at his wife as she ran.

Back in 1951, Jones was sent to prison for killing a man in Fayette County with a shotgun.

When Jones took the stand last week, he blamed alcohol for his troubles. He claimed that he could not remember going on a rampage on the Friday night last spring which ended with his being shot 15 times by officers after they found him hiding in a broken-down truck behind a house at 2301 Vandale.

FORGOT ALL

"I don't remember shooting anyone," he said, "because I had nothing against either one of the men I killed."

"When I got out of prison, I said I was not going to drink any more," he told the jury. "But I went right back on it."

LOOKING FOR WOMAN

Witnesses said Jones went amuck after he attempted to locate Mrs. Louise Pulliam, his former landlady and girl friend, at 2224 Eldridge, and her children and neighbors would not tell him where she was hiding.

After pistol-whipping three of Mrs. Pulliam's children, he herded the youngsters across the street to the residence of

St. Jude To Support Family Of Late Pastor

Officers of St. Jude Baptist church have agreed to give some financial aid to Mrs. L. J. Peppers, widow of the late pastor, until their youngest child reaches the age of 18.

Mrs. Peppers' husband suffered an attack at the church during a heated business meeting with a woman member and died four days later in the E. H. Crump Memorial hospital.

A schoolteacher, Mrs. Curran Mitchell of 1379 Quinn, was arrested and charged with disorderly conduct after police was summoned to the church. The trial was reset for Nov. 19, but the charge has been dropped on the advice of Mrs. Peppers and officials of St. Jude.

"Lawyers advised me on what action I could take," Mrs. Peppers said, "but I am not well and the strain of going to court might be too much for me."

Mrs. Peppers said a number of churches have made donations to her and the children and officers of the church said that until her seven-year-old daughter becomes 18, they will receive support from the church.

"I shall try to stay home and be a good mother to my children," Mrs. Peppers said. "Two of them are teenagers, and my staying at home will help curb juvenile delinquency."

Veteran Teacher Honored At Porter's Open House Program

A large crowd was on hand for the Open House program at Porter Junior High school to climax American Education Week, and Miss Isabelle Greenlee, one of the veteran teachers, was honored.

Miss Greenlee, an eighth grade English teacher, is contemplating retirement after a teaching career of 42 years. At the program she received many good wishes from former principals, former faculty members and students.

Among those present were Harry T. Cash, principal of Hamilton; Mrs. Effie Flagg, Mrs. J. M. Tarpley, and Mrs. Sadie Guy, retired teachers, and Miss Pyttee S. Bolden, Mrs. Omega Shello, Miss Grella Reeves and Mrs. Claudia K. Foster, former faculty members.

Flowers for the occasion were sent by Mrs. Mabel I.

Kennedy Father Stands Strain

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. — (UPI) — Joseph Kennedy kept a lonely vigil Monday.

The 73-year old former ambassador and father of the late president, was alone at the "Kennedy Compound" with his niece Ann Gargan and a long time friend, The Rev. John Cavahugh, former president of the University of Notre Dame.

Friends of the family and members of the household staff said the late President's father was bearing his grief "with great strength and wonderful composure."

She compared Kennedy's murder with the slaying of her brother-in-law, President Ngo Dinh Diem of Viet Nam, and her husband. She said "even the wounds inflicted on President Kennedy were identical" to those of Diem and her husband.

Bentley, a cousin of the honoree and a retired teacher. A beautiful orchid from the school was pinned on Miss Greenlee by Miss M. A. Reeves.

ON THE PROGRAM Miss Greenlee expressed her appreciation for the tributes paid her. Speaking for the church and community was Mrs. H. R. Braithwaite, and for the school was Mrs. P. W. Wright.

Other participants on the program were Mrs. L. H. Bridges, who explained the occasion; Rev. Lee A. Mullen, who gave scripture and prayer; and Mrs. C. D. Hill, PTA president, who gave greetings. Music was supplied by the band, glee club, and the Porter Four, a faculty male quartet.

Pictures of the program were taken by Assistant Principal Chastene Thompson and remarks made by A. B. Owen, Jr., principal of the school. Mrs. Bernice A. E. Callaway was program chairman.

Launch 3 Probes Into Presidents Killing

By JACK VANDENBERG
WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Three major investigations were developing into the assassination of President Kennedy and the murder of his accused slayer, Lee Harvey Oswald.

The inquiries by the FBI, the state of Texas and, possibly, the Senate Judiciary Committee were expected to reveal all the details surrounding the death of the President to choke off at once any of the inevitable rumors of a "plot."

As one Senator remarked, "Some people debated for a century whether John Wilkes Booth killed Lincoln, now is the time to get the whole story (of the Kennedy assassination)."

President Johnson assured the nation that all the facts disclosed in the FBI investigation would be made public.

He ordered all federal agencies to cooperate with the FBI and the Justice Department in a "prompt and thorough investigation of all the circumstances" surrounding the two killings.

"The people of the nation may be sure that all of the facts will be made public," the President said in a statement.

The FBI is positive that Oswald fired the two fatal bullets which killed Kennedy in Dallas last Friday, but it hopes to build an irrefutable case against the ex-Marine.

The Justice Department said it would lend whatever aid Texas officials needed in the state's investigation. Texas Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr announced after President Kennedy's funeral that a "court of inquiry" would be called to consider the slayings.

The court, similar to a fact-finding board but with the power to subpoena witnesses, would serve to replace the trial of Oswald that cannot now be held. It makes findings, but they do not have the force of law and are not privileged, that is, they may be used only at the risk of libel.

Members of the Senate's powerful Judiciary Committee were reported to feel that the Texas investigation would not be enough.

"Too many people are disturbed about the strange circumstances of the whole tragic affair," said one Republican committee member.

The committee members will attempt to ascertain the Kennedy family's feelings before deciding on the investigation. They did indicate, however, that they would offer legislation to make the assassination of the President a Federal crime, punishable by death.

TO REST IN PEACE

A hero's grave on a slope just below the Custis-Lee Mansion in Arlington National Cemetery is readied by workmen for 46-year-old President John Fitzgerald Kennedy.

The youthful slain chief executive is the second U. S. President to be laid to rest in the National heroes' shrine.

Truth About 'The Garden Of Eden'

GREENSBORO, N. C. — "One cannot expect to get something out of a church service unless he brings something to it," Dr. James S. Thomas, of Nashville, Tenn., told the Bennett College vespers audience Sunday.

Dr. Thomas, a representative of the Board of Education of the Methodist Church and a Bennett trustee, said that the deliberate purpose of each person attending a worship service should be to seek a personal encounter with God.

He added: "A hunger for greatness and goodness are needed if one is to benefit from such an encounter."

"Pointing out that nobility and ugliness live in the same environment, and that the truth of the Garden of Eden is as contemporary as yesterday, Dr. Thomas urged that

Church Of God In Christ's 56th Holy Convocation To Start Here November 25

Under a rallying banner of "unity" the 56th Holy Convocation of the Church of God in Christ will convene at Mason Temple, 958 S. Mason St., Nov. 25 to Dec. 6.

This meeting will mark the first national Holy Convocation of the Church of God in Christ since Bishop O. T. Jones, of Philadelphia, Pa., was elected senior bishop of the church with a 12-member Board of Executive Commissioners, headed by Bishop A. B. McEwen, of Memphis. Bishop Jones and Bishop McEwen were elected in Dec. 1962, after the death of Bishop C. H. Mason, founder and organizer of the Church of God in Christ.

Along with Bishop McEwen and Bishop Jones, other members of the Board of Executive Commissioners are: Bishop J. S. Bailey, of Detroit, Mich., vice chairman; Bishop J. O. Patterson, Memphis, general secretary; Bishop O. M. Kelly, New York, N. Y.; Bishop S. M. Crouch, Los Angeles, Calif.; Bishop W. G. Shipman, Detroit, Mich.; Bishop Wyoming Wells, Greensboro, N. C.; Bishop L. H. Ford, Chicago, Ill.; Bishop C. E. Bennett, Gary, Ind.; Bishop John White, New Orleans, La.; and Bishop B. S. Lyles, Clarksdale, Miss.

The day and night meeting will open with three days of fasting and prayer and climaxing Sunday, Dec. 1, Official Day, when Bishop Jones will speak.

Another highlight of the meeting will be "Civic Night," Saturday, Nov. 30, when Bishop L. H. Ford, of Chicago, Ill., will preside. Speakers include the Mayor and City Commissioners of Memphis; George W. Lee, and Elder T. L. Pleas, of Kansas City, Kan.

Other highlights are Nov. 29, Evangelist Department headed by Bishop L. C. Page, of Los Angeles, Calif.; and Dec. 3, Annual Women's Day, Mrs. L. B. Coffey, of Chicago, Ill., presiding.

The Church of God in Christ has nearly three million members and 92 presiding bishops in the United States, Europe, Africa and Latin America.

Hosts to the Convocation are Bishop A. B. McEwen and Bishop J. O. Patterson, of Memphis.

UN And Race Bias

In a recent far-reaching action, the General Assembly's Social Committee of the United Nations adopted a resolution condemning all forms of racial discrimination. The vote was 89 to 0, with 17 abstentions.

What is surprising to a shocking degree is that the United States was among the countries that refused to endorse the resolution. Western Europeans and the British Commonwealth explained that they withheld their approval because the resolution threatened certain freedoms in its desire to stamp out race bias.

In particular they oppose a provision that calls on all nations to outlaw organizations that "promote" racial discrimination.

"The purposes and principles of the declaration have our wholehearted support, as we have made clear time and again," said Mrs. Jane Warner Dick of the United States delegation. However, she continued, wording in the text upset a carefully worked out compromise by Asian, African and Latin-American delegations.

"Our legal and constitutional system has maintained a distinction between the mere expression of opinion and the voicing of statements likely to lead to crime or violence," she added.

The resolution covers every aspect of racial discrimination that delegates from 111 nations could conceive possible. Its articles open with condemnation of any offense to human dignity and move on to outline what a state may not do, such as "encourage, advocate or lend its support, through police action or otherwise, to any discrimination."

Notwithstanding

Thaddeus T. Stokes

A Subject For Memorials

The tempestuous winds of hate has laid waste our leader. Both the hated and the hater have been consumed by the cancerous flames of hate. Still another hater awaits his fate. Will we learn the bitter lesson taught by hate too late?

Our nation was dastardly robbed of a great leader and the world was impoverished of a champion of freedom and justice when John Fitzgerald Kennedy was made an item of archives and subject of memorials by a bullet from a rifle held in the hands of man whose moral sensibilities were dulled by a dissipated and debauched life — Lee Harvey Oswald, who brought shame to Dallas, Texas on Friday, Nov. 22, 1963, shocked and grieved the world by the death of America's 35th president.

The violent deed of Oswald erupted uncontrollable hate in the heart of Jack Rubinstein and caused him to take that which he cannot give the life of Oswald — about the same time that Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy, Caroline and John, Jr., were passing the bier of the chieftain, resting in the nation's capital.

FREE WORLD

Four lives have been taken and one hangs in balance. Oswald unleashed death upon President Kennedy and Dallas City Detective J. D. Tippett — and seriously wounded Gov. John B. Connally.

Heavy brooding shadows encircle the free world—mourning the untimely death of President Kennedy who had given so much, so freely to this nation and the world in guidance to universal understanding, peace, freedom and justice. He was cut down before his task was done.

Another great leader was also cut down on a Friday before his task was done 98 years ago. That was President Abraham Lincoln who was also denied of life by a bullet from a pistol of a assassin, John Wilkes Booth (1865). Both presidents were considered civil rights leaders. Still the greatest of all saviors was also sent to his death on a Friday. He is Jesus Christ. Hate was the motive of their deaths.

NOBLE GOALS

During the mourning period of our beloved, fallen leader, let us reflect on the hideous deed born of hate and resolve to continue the noble goals set by John Fitzgerald Kennedy. Let us do as Christ taught: "do unto others as we would have others do unto us" and "love our neighbors as we love ourselves."

If democracy is to reverberate throughout this country like the clarion ring of the liberty bell: If democracy is to survive in this country and give light to other freedom-loving countries, threatened by dark clouds of totalitarianism; then every clergyman must practice as well as preach the fatherhood of God and the universal brotherhood of man. Politicians must espouse in work and deed the entitlement of the "inalienable right of all men "to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness." This country cannot continue to exist divided along racial lines and proclaim to be a democracy.

Politicians who advocate and practice racial and political hate are responsible for the death of John Fitzgerald Kennedy, Medgar Evers, the four children in a Birmingham, Alabama church, because they infest the hearts of haters like Oswald to kill.

DENIAL AND HATE

If democracy is to continue, educators must indoctrinate hearts and heads with respect for human dignity and cherish our differences rather than scorn them.

Civic leaders and businessmen must give equal opportunity for the fullest development of all potential rather than to dwarf and isolate it because of racial and religious discrimination and deny full participation in the main stream of all community life.

Recreational directors must teach teams-work by pointing the way to a noble goal which can be reached only by the concerted efforts of white hands and black hands clasped in unity while seeking man's highest calling.

Writers must paint in vivid words the sordid dereliction of democracy in order that a change be made in the course of history whose pages are spotted with the innocent blood of those who died because of denials and hate.

RIGHTS AND JUSTICE

Musicians must compose and play a symphony of Freedom, Justice, Peace and Love. The theatre must present a play of Patience, Understanding and Appreciation of difference in race, color and creed.

We, the people of America — black and white, Jew and Gentile, Protestant, and Catholic, Democrats and Republicans, rich and poor must raise up in unison if democracy is to survive because it is far beyond the reach of our city, state and federal governments to accomplish on paper had in words before a favorable change is experienced in the hearts and heads of citizens. To accomplish this will be the finest memorial we can pay our fallen leader, John Fitzgerald Kennedy who believed, fought for and gave his life for human rights and justice.

If we fail, then President Kennedy's work was in vain.

Lets not John Fitzgerald Kennedy's noble work for mankind become only items for archives and a subject for memorials.

Inside Washington

By HENRY CATHCART

WASHINGTON — Revolution in South Viet Nam and death by violence of Ngo Dinh Diem and his brother, Nhu, came as a shock in many quarters in Washington as it did throughout the United States. Undoubtedly, a factor in public awareness of the tragedy was the presence in the U. S. of Nhu's wife and teenaged daughter.

Most observers concede that the revolt was sanctioned, if not actually engineered, by the United States. But the killings were another matter.

U. S. officials came to the conclusion several months ago that if the war against Communism in South Viet Nam was to succeed, the Diem regime would have to go. Because of domestic policies the regime had pursued, it had lost the confidence of the Vietnamese.

The U. S. choice appeared to be either to continue to support an unpopular regime, which act would jeopardize progress of the anti-Communist campaign, or to seek a new ruling junta that could win public backing for the war against Communist-financed guerrilla forces.

It is not often that a United States administration is forced to make this kind of a choice so openly. Usually, it is done behind the scenes and involves an area of the world where the attention of the United States public is not so closely focused.

In fact, even with this kind of spotlight, the overthrow of the Diem regime would not have caused the kind of public concern it did, were it not for the shock of the killings of the two brother leaders of the country. In many parts of the world, and in some quarters in the U. S., there is a natural revulsion at the sight of a government as advanced as that of the United States with the appearance of blood on its hands.

More disturbing is the thought that the new regime being backed by the U. S., with military forces, equipment, and many millions of dollars, is so callous or has so little control over its own armies, that murder becomes an avenue preferred to exile.

GARDENING VOTE?—Sen. Everett Dirksen, R-Ill., minority leader in the Senate, is a devoted gardener. His Washington area home is usually a riot of color.

Dirksen is also a politician of some note, and a co-principal on the "Ev and Charlie Show," made up of himself and the House Republican leader, Charles Halleck of Indiana.

The show, filmed for television, is almost always partisan in character, but someone raised the matter of National Flower Week. Politics was pushed aside as Dirksen rhapsodized:

"You should have seen my marigolds this year! Now, without being too partial, you should have seen my zinnias and petunias, too — they were just out of this world, I can tell you. Flowers are things of such exquisite beauty that whether they are fragrant or not, they titillate the soul. I'm entirely impartial. I grow roses, too, and tea roses are still doing extremely well."

It was one of the few times on the show that Dirksen was not being political and he probably won over a good section of the gardening vote in the process.

Members Grumble In Political Marriage

By ARNOLD SAWISLAK

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The political marriage of convenience known as the Republican-Southern Democratic coalition has not been put asunder, despite some public grumbling by a member of the wedding.

Reports suggesting there may be a crack in the informal, bipartisan alliance of congressional conservatives arose from a speech by Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga.

Russell, the South's foremost legislative strategist, and other Dixie congressmen have had frequent occasion in the past to make common cause with Republicans to oppose liberal programs.

The Georgia Democrat heaped ridicule on House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck, Ind., for helping President Kennedy extract a compromise civil rights bill from the House Judiciary Committee.

In what could be construed as a veiled "turncoat" charge, Russell pictured Halleck as "adorned in the leather shirt and tasseled moccasins of the new frontier."

Was this notice to Halleck that the North-South honeymoon was over? Perhaps, but some observers interpreted it as strictly for the consumption of Southern Democrats.

Combining a familiar object of Southern distaste — civil rights legislation—with a new and ominous political threat—the Republican party—it was a deft and probably effective political one-two-punch.

The threat posed to Southern Democrats by the GOP was pointed up by an exultant telegram sent by Rep. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., to Florida State Rep. Thomas Slade, who had announced his switch from the Democratic to Republican parties.

"More and more conservative Southern Democrats are realizing the Republican party represents their principles better than the Democratic party," Gurney said.

"I hope your move will motivate other Democratic office holders in Florida and the South to make this logical change to the Republican ranks."

In any case, the Russell speech could not signal the end of Republican-Southern Democratic cooperation on civil rights because it never really existed in that field.

The coalition has operated successfully in opposition to many spending and social welfare proposals but it has been the South against the field when civil rights was the issue.

It is true that some conservative Republican Senators have voted with the South against attempts to shut off debate, but so have some Western Democrats.

When the showdown votes on civil rights were counted in 1957 and 1960, Republicans in both House and Senate were much closer to united support of the bills than the Democrats.

In other fields, there is reason to believe that the coalition actually is stronger today than it was two years ago.

The heyday of the North-South coalition was in the last years of the Eisenhower administration, when the conservatives stood fast against the efforts of congressional Democrats to pass liberal programs exceeding the President's requests.

Federal aid to education and an increased minimum wage were two proposals that the coalition stymied.

DARK Shadows

by NAT D. WILLIAMS

BLACK FRIDAY

President John F. Kennedy was assassinated on Friday, Nov. 22, 1963 . . . as every American very vividly knows. It was a "black Friday." He was the first American President to be violently removed from office during the era of television and radio. These two communications media saturated the nation with every possible detail of the event. They were aided and abetted by modern newspaper techniques. The President's death, like his life—was portrayed in gold fish bowl.

The fact that President Kennedy met death in Dallas, Texas began taking on added weight with many people as they began to recover from the shock and gloom occasioned by the unexpected tragedy.

Many remembered that Dallas and vicinity are the centers of many of the far Right Wing groups in America which so strenuously, bitterly, and loudly opposed the liberal trends of the Kennedy Administration.

A lot of folk began to take a closer look at the South, where bombings of churches, killing of children, violent defiance of governmental authority . . . and now the killing of a President of the United States seem the order of the day . . . and a way of life . . . and where the use of police dogs and strong-stream firehoses against unarmed people demonstrating for their natural and American rights is a matter of routine . . . the South, where the killer of Medgar Evers still finds very vocal sympathizers . . . and where, reportedly, some rabid partisans allegedly applauded Mr. Kennedy's death, because they regarded him as a meddling obstruction to their vested interests and inherited hatreds.

GREAT SHOCK

The late President's untimely death occasioned great shock and sadness in the Negro community . . . from all classes. Negroes generally regarded John F. Kennedy as their greatest friend in high position since Abraham Lincoln. And well they might.

Without much detailed knowledge of the constitutional structure of government in the United States, most Negroes sensed that it is a rare and a great blessing for them to seek racial progress under the administration of a President who puts federal law ahead of state laws . . . who feels it is his duty to protect American citizens first and concede to state laws second.

If President Kennedy hadn't felt that way, Mississippi's reactionary Gov. Barnett would have got away with his undemocratic plans for Meredith. If President Kennedy hadn't felt that the rights of all American citizens are the primary responsibility of the Federal government to protect, his Civil Rights Bill in Congress would have been a watered-down thing that disturbed nobody. As it is his stand on civil rights may have been a major contributory factor in his death. His death must have brought a sigh of happy relief from Senators and Congressmen representing race-haters.

Old and young folk cried unashamedly when the news of Mr. Kennedy's death flashed across the nation. A numbed silence was a general reaction after the first outcry of disbelief. Then people including some whites, began wondering what kind of cancer is gnawing at the vitals of this nation that leads to the production and harboring of man-like creatures that have no compunction about bombing little Sunday School children to death . . . and hiding in empty buildings to use high powered rifles to kill liberal Presidents.

REMINING NEGROES

It seems that the idea of democracy has a whole lot more work to do to prove itself as a suitable way of life for survival for everybody involved in it. It seems that too many Southerners, particularly, don't believe this is a government of laws and not of men. . . . it seems that too many white Southerners feel that they are over law where it clashes with their entrenched prejudice and vested interests. It seems they have been spoiled by their years-long privilege of reminding Negroes . . . "Ah'm a white man." And this makes it comparatively easy for them to go around wantonly killing those with whom they disagree . . . because they feel they are the Law . . . the Wagon . . . and everybody, including the President, goes when the wagon comes.

Faubus, Barnett, Wallace, and that ilk have set the pace for lawlessness in America. They had a big hand in the killing of President Kennedy . . . by the example they set in disregard for Federal authority and Presidential prestige.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON

The elevation of Vice President Lyndon Johnson to the Presidential chair may not be too much consolation to Negro integration leaders. Despite his formal commitment to carrying out the policies of President Kennedy, the suspicion still lingers among the mass of Negroes that President Johnson is a conservative Southerner who gives lip but not heart service to the Negro's cause in seeking first-class citizenship.

There is a feeling that the course of the integration or desegregation struggle will be definitely, if not radically changed, now that the support of a favorably interested dedicated President seems removed. Selah!

SOCIETY

Merry Go-Round

BY MARJORIE I. ULEN

Still stunned, outraged and groping for the feeling of reality, lost in the wake of the heinous assassination of the late President John Fitzgerald Kennedy in that dastard and depraved act in Dallas, Texas, last Friday, we are compelled to raise our feeble voice and limited vocabulary to state our sense of enormous loss, and the sorrow and grief that is in the hearts and minds of the people of the United States.

In the wake of the eloquent and analytical verbiage expressed to the people of this nation and to the shocked world, were great messages of truths to be culled; and it was our fortune to be living in an age of mass communication and transportation rich with the rewards of scientific knowledge and endeavor, which made possible our presence in the scenes that followed.

In the sorrowing of the nation, was succor and comfort to be gained in the tragic death of a great President, a noble humanitarian, a devout Christian and an exemplary husband and father.

JOHN FITZGERALD KENNEDY was an image and the epitome of the ideal man described by Plato in The Republic. "A man must take with him into the world both an adamant faith in truth and right, that there he may be undazzled by the desire of wealth or the other allurements of evil, lest, coming upon tyrannies and similar villainies, he do irremediable wrongs to others and suffer yet worse himself; but let him know how to choose the means and avoid the extremes on either side, as far as possible, not only in this life but in that which is to come. For this is the way of happiness."

HYMNS OF EULOGY
In the great hymns of eulogy, one statement struck us forcefully. "The only thing we learn in history is that we do not learn to grow," as was said by someone else before.

Out of this American Tragedy has come the realization and the hopes that... GROW WE MUST... if the American dream is ever to reach its fruition.

There were deep and abiding and significant lessons for all citizens, parents, teachers, philosophers and the message of faith and hope for Negroes.

FOR ALL CITIZENS there was the matter of the continuity and unity of a great nation... like that for which President Lincoln paid with his life 98 years before... the true significance of our Documents of Freedom and the lives cut down by wars in the cause of freedom... the beacon light of democracy and freedom that America must give to emerging nations with underdeveloped and underprivileged millions who thoroughly understand the full meaning of the word "freedom" and their determination to have it for themselves.

FAMILY LIFE
FOR PARENTS there was the exemplification of the richness of family life as evidenced by the late President, his wife and their two young children... there was the self-discipline, stoicism, courage and indomitable will of Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy as she held within her heart the anguish and searing pain of loss as she emerged from the White House to join the procession to the Rotunda of the Capital... a picture of utter loneliness and despair, flanked by two beautifully disciplined young children... her forgetting of self as she attended to the amenities of the role of the widow of a President... an unforgettable lesson that taught one and all that sorrow is a personal thing — to be borne in privacy, with restraint from public display of sentiment and emotion.

FOR TEACHERS there were visible lesson plans for underriding the wisdom of their students in the richness of American history... seen and heard from the recounting of facts from other moments of sorrow for other Presidents cut down by assassins in the turbulent 188 years of the nation. There was the rich panorama of the beautiful architecture of the government buildings in Washington, D.C., the varied vocabulary surrounding formal military funeral procedure... the evidences of art in the murals of the Rotunda's walls and magnificent dome... excellent music by the Philadelphia Symphony, the Mormon Tabernacle, the Freedom's Foundation memorial program from Los Angeles... the literature to be read... Kennedy's Inaugural Address — destined to take its place in history with Lincoln's Gettysburg Address... his ability as a writer — especially his "Profiles in Courage" of which he is now a profile... there were the arrangements of protocol, the American line of succession, the names of the members of the cabinet and leaders of the Houses of Congress... and among things too numerous to recount, the discipline of the military and the symbolism of tradition surrounding the cortege and bier.

FOR NEGROES... there was the message of hope and faith in the leadership of a new President, Lyndon B. Johnson, already on record for a forthright belief in the principles of democracy being fought for in this Year of Decision with its sit-ins, demonstrations and marches. Above all, the necessity for group unity, unselfish leadership that reaches down to articulate the hopes and aspirations of every individual at the bottom of the social ladder, and the need to band together and follow the directions of enlightened leadership.

The need for every Negro parent to strengthen the core of the family, to discipline youths, to build moral fiber, character, integrity and health into their minds and bodies, to partake fully of the free education that is theirs to have, and which they must have in order to find their places in the days ahead in which opportunity is brightly dawning.

FOR PUBLIC OFFICIALS AND RESPONSIBLE INDIVIDUALS... awareness of the danger of heaping vilification, hatred and abuse upon the highest office of our land. Who can forget the invectives, blasphemy, personal abuse, harassment and insult heaped upon the highest office of our land by supposedly enlightened public officials, newspapers, and thus articulating the hatreds, ignorance, fears and depravity of the sick souls in the nation.

It was incongruous to have to listen to words of sentiments from public officials whose words and actions belied the messages of condolence they claimed to bring to the Kennedy family, when they have constantly enflamed the minds of men like Oswald, and thereby helped to pull the trigger which snuffed out the life of a great American President and that of Tippett, a humble Texas policeman who died in the line of duty in this enormous tragedy.

We don't believe that the leaders of Parliament in Britain, the leaders of France, West Germany, Canada, the free nations of the world, have ever been subjected to the vilification heaped upon our President by responsible elements in those countries. To differ in political belief is a fundamental right of every American, but the base and grossly indecent manner in which it is done in America is a travesty upon the minds of intelligent people anywhere in the world.

Here we are reminded of JULIUS CAESAR, Shakespeare's great drama of human cravenness... that our rightists, extremists, espousers of beliefs of racial superiority are somewhat like Cassius... when he said of Caesar... "Why, man, he doth bestride the narrow world... like a Colossus, and we petty men... walk under his huge legs and peep about... to find ourselves dishonorable graves. Men at some time are masters of their fates: The fault, dear Brutus, is not in our stars... but in ourselves, that we are underlings..."

And, the world knows that the building of this suspicion of leadership led to the death of Caesar... and well may have the death of Kennedy been planned by the builders of hatred and extremism in our own time.

Rich are we for our fortune that the reigns of government have not been dropped... that the machinery of defense of our nation and its security is yet at work... God grant President Lyndon B. Johnson the wisdom, the grace, the health and the spiritual guidance to continue the role of statesman, humanitarian, and world leader that was his predecessor, the late John F. Kennedy who now lies in repose in Arlington National Cemetery.

"Carnation makes such a heavenly cream pie filling," Mrs. Cook volunteers, "and such a tender cake. Best of all, it whips beautifully for homemade ice cream and frozen desserts!"

Former Memphian To Help Direct 'Saint Cecilia'

GREENSBORO, N. C. — A former Memphian, Wendell P. Whalum, will be one of the directors when Morehouse College glee club of Atlanta, Ga., and Bennett College choir collaborate in performing the cantata, "To Saint Cecilia," by Norman Delio Joio, Friday, Nov. 29, at Bennett College here. Bennett's choir is directed by Mrs. Mary M. Crawford.

Accompaniment will be provided by A&T College's 10-piece brass choir, under direction of Jimmie Williams, assistant band director.

Whalum, is the son of Mrs. Thelma Whalum, a teacher at Hamilton High school, and brother of Harold Whalum, a vice president of Union Proved by the Memphis Transit Insurance company, and Kenneth Whalum, employee.

BUSY SEASON

Gee, this is such a busy season. Christmas is right around the corner and it seems the season came upon us before we could wish you a joyous Thanksgiving. However, let us pause to give thanks for our many blessings even if it does seem as blessings are a bit slow sometimes.

And speaking of Christmas, the Jacksons can boast of a truly colorful parade of color in regards to the races, issuing in the Christmas season. Forty-eight units including bands and floats marched down the streets of Jackson on Tuesday, Nov. 19 and Lane College, Number 18, came in for second place in the special float division receiving a $50 cash prize from the sponsoring Chamber of Commerce for their float which had as the theme "White Christmas."

Gracing the float were four Lane beauties, namely, "Miss Lane College" Carolyn Vaulx, and Misses Diane Armstrong, Mary Bradley, and Mary E. Bond. Other Negro schools participating were: Merry High (band), Washington-Douglas, Lincoln, and South Jackson Elementary schools with floats.

LECTURES ON CAMPUS

On the Lane College campus last week to give a series of lectures was Dr. Joseph A. Weybrew, R. J. Reynolds distinguished professor of chemistry at North Carolina college, who is now engaged to marry in tobacco research. He was guest of the Division of Natural and Physical Sciences of which Dr. A. E. A. Hudson is chairman.

A dinner in his honor was given in the seminar room of the science building on last Friday evening by the gracious host, Dr. Hudson who invited faculty members to share the fellowship with him and members of the Division. Visitors present were: Mrs. Hudson, wife of Dr. Hudson; Mrs. Haliburton, wife of Mr. Haliburton, instructor in the division; Rev. Brown of Memphis, and of Mrs. Gladys Brown, secretary to the Natural and Physical Science division. It was an elaborate affair.

Mrs. Marie Penn and Rev. A. L. Campbell were named Citizens of the Year at the annual Achievement Week Program of Omega Psi Phi fraternity in Jackson on Sunday, November 17.

In keeping with the theme: "Individual Responsibility and the American Revolution for Rights" both Mrs. Penn and Rev. Campbell have certainly gone beyond the call of duty in individual responsibility. Mrs. Penn is dean of women at Lane college and Rev. Campbell is pastor of Berean Baptist church.

Junior citizens who received citations for exercising their responsibilities were: Misses Shirley Bacon, Shirlene Ross and Eleanor Grimes, C. B. Johnson, Huey Long, and James McKinney, all students at Lane college.

Mrs. Vivian Bell, basileus of Nu Sigma chapter of Sigma Gamma Rho Sorority was the guest speaker in Memphis on Sunday, Nov. 17 when Memphis Sigmas observed the founding of the sorority. I along with Mrs. Clara Hewitt, a Sigma soror from the Jackson chapter, had the pleasure of hearing Mrs. Bell as she held the audience spellbound on the theme "Horizons to Citizenship." She graciously painted the picture of the horizons and concluded by saying that "we, as women, must join hands before it is too late, in this struggle for first class citizenship."

She was introduced by Mrs. Alberta Jamison, a member of Nu Sigma chapter. A reception followed in the Sigma Sorority House on Saxon.

Prior to hearing Mrs. Bell's address at Second Congregational Church, Mrs. Hewitt, head librarian at Lane college and your scribe who fills the position of catalogue librarian, witnessed scholarly dedication of the new modern Hollis Price Library on the campus of LeMoyne college.

As most of you possibly already know, guest speaker for the occasion was Gershon Collier, ambassador from Sierra Leone to the United States. In addition to the inviting surroundings, a beautiful sight to behold upon entering the

The University of Tennessee

Nursing School is open to all without regard to race, creed or color. Rev. James E. Smith, local director of the Congress of Racial Equality, reported to the spacious library is the Ben Shahn mural which had been unveiled earlier. The day spent in Memphis certainly proved to be a profitable one, as well as an enjoyable one, as we were dinner guests in the home of Mrs. R. Q. Vinson.

Please keep in mind the charitable projects of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority. To help spread Christmas cheer, the Charity Ball is set for December 14 in the Merry High School gym and the Christmas card sale is still on. Tickets may be purchased from any soror or you may contact your scribe.

Sympathies go out to Mrs. Lucille Sangster in the loss of her mother who lived in Alabama. She was the great-grandmother of your paper boy, William McKissack.

Tri-State Defender. Rev. Smith was one of the committee of three which called on Dr. Homer F. Marsh, vice president of the UT School of Nursing, for clarification on the matter after it was reported to CORE that the school was still segregated.

Accompanying him were William Parish and Ronald Pierce. "Since the school is open to all," Rev. Smith said, "we would like for some young woman to enter it."

One year of college is a prerequisite for entering the school of nursing.

PR Aide Gets Urban League Award Of Merit

NEW YORK — Miss Ann Tannehill, assistant director of public relations of the National Urban League, was honored here with the Merit Award of the New York Personnel and Guidance Association, in recognition of her outstanding contributions over many years in the field of education and vocational guidance.

The award was conferred at a dinner meeting on Nov. 15, Miss Ida Alpert, NYPGA president and Michael Guerriero, immediate past president, were hosts.

The Award of Merit, a bronze medallion and inscribed plaque, is awarded to an individual whose efforts and contribution best symbolize the objectives of the association.

In presenting the citation, Miss Alpert pointed out the broad range of endeavors in counseling and guidance to which Miss Tannehill has contributed during her long Urban League service.

Miss Tannehill began what was to become an outstanding career as a stenographer-secretary in the Springfield (Mass.) UL affiliate. Shortly after, she was transferred to NUL headquarters in New York, where her dedication to the League program became and has endured as incentive to thousands of Negro youth.

Sad Birthday For Kennedy, Jr., No Kiss From Daddy This Day

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — "I want a flag to take home to my daddy."

Those were the words of John Fitzgerald Kennedy Jr., who was three years old Monday.

The little boy was seen by millions of people clutching the tiny American flag in his fist as he walked down the 36 steps of the capitol.

He got the flag in the speaker's office for the tall man with laughing blue eyes who used to love him and pet him and take him on helicopter rides. The President who is no more.

John-John, as his father affectionately called him, was taken there when he got restless in the Rotunda where he had to be so still and couldn't break loose from his mother's firm hold.

His father, who was rarely still, would have understood. John Jr. was expected to go to Arlington Cemetery when the Daddy he adored was laid to rest with other Americans who served their country. He had been there before and has heard the sound of taps.

The President took his son to Arlington on Veterans Day, only two weeks ago, to honor the war dead. The youngster charmed the nation by saluting the men in uniform and attempting to fall in step with his father.

When there should be rejoicing for John Jr., there is sadness. He was to have a little birthday party to celebrate with his playmates. He may still have that. His father would have wanted it.

In Dallas, Another Hero Is Laid To Rest

DALLAS — (UPI) — Three hours after the last muffled drum tap and the last volley echoed over vast Arlington Cemetery, across the Potomac from Washington, another body was lowered into the earth. There was far less ceremony.

Patrolman J. D. Tippit, 39, devoted husband and father, was buried in Laurel Land Memorial Park after services in the Beckley Hills Baptist Church on the South edge of Dallas.

Less than an hour after President Kennedy was shot, Tippit, an 11-year-veteran on the force, was shot twice by a pistol. Police say there is no doubt — Lee Harvey Oswald shot President Kennedy and he shot J. D. Tippit. He used the initials, not a first name.

Tippit had spotted Oswald in the Oak Cliff section of Dallas and had pulled his cruiser over to the curb. He got out of the car. The gunman fired. Tippit fell dead.

He made $490 a month. Dallas police have no insurance. They are not covered by Social Security. But his widow will receive $225 a month from the police retirement fund. And donations running into thousands of dollars have been pouring in.

There are three children to support: Allan, 14; Brenda, 10, and Curtis, 4.

Half the $225 will be for Tippit's widow, Marie. The other is for the children. They lose their payments when they reach 18, if she remarries.

Tippit will be the footnote in the history books. But Marie recalled him as a generous, hard-working husband, a devoted family man, a devout Christian.

Attorney General Robert Kennedy called Mrs. Tippit after the shootings to express the family's regret. Mrs. Tippit, through her own tears, thought of Jacqueline Kennedy and expressed her own condolences.

The children were numbed. Their father will be remembered as a brave man. Once before, in 1955, he had been cited for heroism when he disarmed a thug.

1st Peeress In House

LONDON — (UPI) — Dowager Viscountess St. Davids, 79, became the first hereditary peeress to sit in the House of Lords.

She joined the Conservative Party benches of the house — putting her in opposition to her son, Viscount St. Davids, who is a Labor Party member.

Melrose Girls Get Assignments At California Base

SHEPPARD AFB, Tex. — Airmen Third Class Katherine and Josephine Greer of Memphis, Tenn., members of the Women in the Air Force (WAF), have been reassigned to March AFB, Calif., following their graduation from the technical training courses for United States Air Force communications center specialists here.

Airmen Greer, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Greer of 734 Marchalene St., Memphis, studied military communications procedures, message structure and the operation of teletypewriter equipment used in the world-wide Air Force communications system.

The airmen, graduates of Melrose High school, entered the service in May this year.

A POLITICAL CAUCUS

Civil rights leader A. Philip Randolph (2nd from right) chats with other participants of the 47th annual convocation of the School of Religion at Howard University following an address in which he called for a "non-partisan national Negro political convocation" following the 1964 Democratic and Republican conventions. The purpose of such action, said the AFL-CIO vice president, is to assess the party platforms and Presidential candidates and issue an evaluation to the nation's Negroes. Discussing the proposal with Randolph are (l-r) Howard Jenkins of the National Labor Relations Board; William Stuart Nelson, Howard University's vice president, and Dean Daniel G. CAGE SEASON OPENS

Last year when Lester, the defending Prep League basketball champs, was favored for that title, Coach Ira Spillers didn't think that his squad should have been so rated. All that the Lions did was breeze through the league schedule with 12 victories against two losses, capped the district and regional crowns. In the state meet, Lester reached the finals before bowing to Pearl High of Nashville.

Spillers did say there would be some justification for predicting Lester would win the title if they had won last season.

They did win and the cards are stacked in the Lions' favor this year with Richard Jones and Charles Paulk back to show the way. Both tower near the 6' 8" mark.

Jones, the league's second leading scorer last season, already has been picked on one pre-season all-American team. Should Jones live up to this big buildup, Lester could add another title. Several schools have their sights set on the agile Jones, who along with Paulk spent part of the summer in a basketball camp at Tennessee A&I State.

COBRAS, CONTENDERS

Carver finished in a deadlock with Bertrand and Douglass for fourth place during the 1963 campaign, but the Cobras figure to move up the ladder with top spot on their goal. Flooring a starting five that average 6' 2" in height, Carver could make a run for it.

The Cobras have a pair of sharp shooters in Bill Gilliland and Leo Brown. The squad's big question mark is the center position where all Memphis Carl Turner gave them strong inside play before his graduation.

SMITH, MELROSE STAR

Bobby Smith, who along with Jones of Lester, hit for over 40 points in a single game last season, will lead a Melrose team that ran second to Lester last season.

Because of the long football season, the versatile Smith will have little time to find his head on the basket, with the season opening Monday with a full slate of games. Smith, one of the few four letter athletes around in this age of specialists and year around seasons. Smith is only a junior; however, the rangy competitor already has two more seasons of basketball, football, track and baseball behind him.

With James Sandridge now on the LeMoine roster, Smith will be the big man in the Melrose attack.

THUNDERBOLTS SEASONED

Father Bertrand could be the sleeper this year with the team built around Redell Smith and rebounder Willie Denton.

DOUGLASS, MANASSAS, HAMILTON

Douglass will have a scrappy quintet but must come up with replacements for three starters. The four new 'Red Devils' starters will have to gain experience game by game. Vester Swift and Walter Winfrey are the only returning lettermen.

Manassas will have a senior team with Wesley Mitchell, a fine scorer, as its leader. The Tigers showed a lot of punch in two exhibition wins.

Hamilton's Lloyd Williams moved up from the B-team coach in an effort to get the Wildcats out of the cellar. Although the 'Cats' have taken their lumps in a pair of pre-season tilts they could hit their stride and be spoilers. Theodore Anderson and Eddie Howard will have to give Hamilton that big lift.

The opening games send Manassas to Douglass, Bertrand to Melrose, Washington against Carver and Lester visits Hamilton in a day contest.

Night games begin at 7:00 p. m. with day battles slated for 3:30 p. m.

Magicians Open Season By Opposing Philander This Saturday Night

LeMoine's Magicians usher in their home season this Saturday night, Nov. 30, at 8 in Bruce Hall when they tangle with the invading Philander Smith College quintet from Little Rock, Ark.

Philander Smith holds membership in the Gulf Coast Conference and LeMoine is a Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference member.

Following the Saturday night outing, LeMoine will take to the road for two games, meeting Knoxville College at Knoxville, Dec. 2, and Alabama A&M at Huntsville, Dec. 3.

Three home games will follow on the Bruce Court, with the Magicians tackling Alabama State, Dec. 7; Fisk University, Dec. 10, and Stillman, Dec. 13.

Last game before the Christmas holidays will be at Ala-

Even-Steven 19-19 Was Score Of League Play-Off

After shock had cleared the vast confines of Crump Stadium last Thursday night, Booker T. Washington and Melrose were no better off than when they entered in combat nearly two hours earlier — however, the 19-19 draw recorded in the second duel between these two bitter rivals was a real donnybrook witnessed by the largest crowd in Negro Prep League history.

The large turnout of 9,300, not conspicuous in 30,000 seat Crump Stadium, saw one of the most exciting games that could be unreeled by two scholastic outfits.

As it has been all season, both teams stayed predominantly on the ground. Oscar Reed broke the scoring ice with a ball length bang across the goal on fourth down pass. Eddie Richards, the hero of the Warriors' 21-19 league conquest of Melrose, kicked the extra point.

BTW HIKES LEAD

Reed, the night's leading ground gainer with 100 yards, gave Washington a 13-0 margin when he knifed through for a three yard touchdown after Richards had hauled in a 43 yard pass from quarterback Ronald Ester late in the second quarter.

Eugene Coleman got Melrose rallying with a 46 yard runback of the ensuing kickoff. A few plays later, the crunching Melrose running attack, spearheaded by some crisp blocking, pushed the Warriors back to their own three, where the drive fizzled out.

Washington's decision to punt on third down allowed Melrose to score its first touchdown just before the first half ended. Richards' punt was partially blocked by Melrose and the Golden Wildcats took over on the Warriors' 15 yard stripe. Shortly afterwards, Leroy Moton, Melrose's top rusher with 74 yards, hit a favorite hole off tackle from the two for the touchdown. Bobby Smith kicked the point.

Moton culminated on 12 plays the tying score, an eight yard power romp off the right side of the line to open the third quarter.

Richards, shifted from the flanker slot to his familiar running back position at the start of the second half, electrified the tense throng with a 58-yard spring down the north sidelines to the Melrose two-yard line. It took Willie Dawson who came out of nowhere, to catch the fleet Richards. Dawson and J. W. Brown, Washington's defensive back, both have run the 100-yard dash under 9.6 seconds. Ester glided over on a rollout.

With Melrose behind 13-19, the only completed pass by Golden Wildcats, a 34-yarder from Hank Bridgeforth to Elbert Rich, set up the touchdown that knotted the score again. The 61 yard march was climaxed when Jimmy Ward fought his way into the end zone from the eight. The conversion that could have won it, was missed.

Washington took the kickoff and from the 20, embarked upon a gallant but futile effort to pull the game out. The Warriors got inside of the eight before attempts to go wide were stopped by the Melrose defense. One last Washington hope faded when Richards' field goal attempt on fourth down was wide with 22 seconds remaining for Melrose, attempting a halfback pass with just a few seconds remaining narrowly missed having Moton trapped for a safety.

The depth of the Melrose backfield was shown as seven ball carriers chalked up 224 yards, five more than the total amassed by just four Washington ball luggers. Ester hit on three of five passes for 72 yards while the equally sporadic aerial attack of Melrose found its target just once in five attempts from three different flingers.

Melrose and Washington shared the Prep League Championship with 6-1 records.

Do You Want To Join A Stamp Collecting Club?

Several local persons who collect postage stamps as a hobby are interested in starting a club here. Leading the effort to establish the club is Albion Ricard, employed at Universal Life Insurance company. Interested persons should write to: Mr. Albion Ricard, P. O. Box 241, Memphis, Tenn.

Ricard said, "Collecting stamps can be a very interesting profitable and inexpensive hobby." Beginners will be given stamps to start collections. For persons already collecting stamps, there can be swapping "used" and "mint" stamps, as well as "first-day of issue" and those of historical and noted events in America and foreign countries.

'Victim' Sees Rats, Pigeon Droppers Run For Cover

Whenever the Yuletide season rolls around, and halls are decked with boughs of holly, the pigeon droppers sally forth to make a kill.

A member of Mississippi Blvd. Christian church, who wants to remain anonymous, has this message for the public: Beware!

The woman was approached last week by a woman with a very sad story, when suddenly a third party came up and announced she has found money in a telephone booth and wanted to share it.

"This sounds phony to me," the woman said, and "Mrs. Moneyfinder" ran away. The woman with the sad story stayed on until the intended victim caught the bus.

Other methods are now being used to fleece the suckers, including the sale of cheap goods by wandering merchants from the North at "bargain prices."

Weinberger Quits Brownsville; Faced Four-Year Prison Term

BROWNVILLE, Tenn. — Eric Weinberger, the white pacifist who came to Haywood County two years ago and helped establish an industry which provides an income for more than 70 women, is gone.

Weinberger was given his choice: he could remain in the county and take a four-year jail sentence for assaulting a deputy sheriff, or he could leave.

In September, while carrying a sign calling for school desegregation along with some Negro children, Weinberger was arrested. When he refused to walk to jail, arm clamps were put on him and he was dragged a considerable distance. Acid was poured on him, and he finally put up bond, and went to a Negro hospital in Memphis for treatment after the burns became infected.

White Teachers Pay Fines Of Florida Pickets

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — Professors at all-white Florida State University are raising funds to pay the fines of Negro and white students arrested in Tallahassee CORE demonstrations at the Florida Theatre — and State Representative C. E. Russell is "alarmed."

In fact, he has called upon other state legislators and members of the State Board of Control, which operates the university system, to express their "disapproval."

The white professors' fundraising campaign started on Oct. 22 with an appeal letter signed by ten faculty members. By Nov. 1, several hundred dollars had been collected, reports Dr. James Gould, an professor of philosophy.

The fines, levied against 37 students, total $10,000. Seven of the students are whites, who attend Florida State University and the University of Florida. Thirty are Negroes, who attend Florida A & M University.

The Negro university recently suspended two students who received the heaviest sentences — six months — as a consequence of the theatre picketing. They are Patricia Stephens Due, one of the founders of Tallahassee CORE and Ruben Kenon. Their suspension prompted several student protest demonstrations.

Although Weinberger is a complete pacifist, Brownsville officials charged him with kicking a deputy during the demonstrations last fall. Before his trial, his attorney was informed that witnesses had been found who intended to testify that they had seen him kick the officer, and that he would have to spend several years in jail.

On the other hand, if Weinberger who had no witnesses, agreed to leave Brownsville, the charges would be dropped. "I saw that I had to leave Brownsville one way or the other — either on my own volition or to jail for four years," Weinberger said.

NOT LEAVING SOUTH

While he was in the West Tennessee town, women from homes where someone had been fired because they registered to vote learned the "tote bag" trade and more than 3,000 have been manufactured and sold. Weinberger lived in the building where the bags were made.

Weinberger is arranging for the project to continue without him, and urges people to write to the Haywood Handicrafters, 307 W. Margin, Brownsville, Tenn., for the bags.

At present he is planning new home industries in other Southern communities which will produce jewelry and sandals.

Coming here Dec. 9 — The Tennessee State University basketball team will open the 1963-64 season here on Monday night, Dec. 9, in the Melrose High school gymnasium in a benefit game sponsored by the Memphis chapter of the Tennessee State University Alumni association. Proceeds will go to the chapter's W. J. Hall Scholarship Fund to help Memphis students at the Nashville school. Opposing the Tigers, three-time NAIA champions, on the Melrose High hardwood will be the Lane College Dragons, favored to twist the tail of the Tigers. Tickets are now on sale by TSU alumni.
